

Vermonters Buys Property.

The history of Walnut Cove would be far complete, without the name of W. Harry Sanders, the efficient and able secretary of the chamber of commerce, who is known for his modern methods and active interest in Walnut Cove and that portion of Stokes county.

Mr. Sanders came to Walnut Cove five years ago from Derry, N. H., where he was known for many years as a live-wire and a go-getter. He proudly boasts of having been a travelling salesman for seventeen years and of having been in every state in the union except Louisiana and he says he has never before had the pleasure of being in such a wonderful community as Walnut Cove or of having met better people.

He owns several large tracts of land near Walnut Cove, upon which he has erected a number of handsome residences. On one of his extensive tracts he has built a handsome country home, surrounded by a beautiful expanse of timber land. Mr. Sanders has planned a number of large development enterprises which will greatly add to the wealth and fame of the Walnut Cove section. He is a frequent visitor to Winston-Salem, where he is well known among the progressive citizens of that city. He is deeply imbued with the great successful future of Walnut Cove and its environs, which he says will take their place in the front rank of the communities of the south.
